Appeal To The Nine-Power Conference

CHINESE LIBERTY BONDS Over $250,000,000 Subscribed

"In the face of the gallantry of our soldiers who are giving life and limb for the country, to talk of any service to them would be to brag."

With this terse statement, Mr. T. V. Soong, Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee and former Minister of Finance, concluded an enlightening statement answering Japanese propaganda that the Liberty Loan campaign is going none too well.

"More than $250,000,000 of the Liberty Bonds have already been subscribed in this country at par," Mr. Soong said, "which must be considered a worthy manifestation of the patriotism of the people, as the campaign has been under way for only a few weeks."

POSITION IN JAPAN

The sale of these bonds is in pleasing contrast to the situation in Japan where the 'China Incident' bonds were forced down the throats of the Japanese bankers whose portfolios were already overladen with government bonds, thus creating the 'red ink bonds' problem that is accelerating the collapse of the Japanese economic and currency structure."

Refuting Japanese allegations that wealthy Chinese have failed to support the campaign, Mr. Soong added, "In Shanghai alone more than $10,000,000 have been subscribed by the wealthy people in blocks of $50,000 and upwards. In addition to indirect subscriptions through their business interests. There has been no attempt at giving publicity to the names of these subscribers."

"While this reticence contravenes the injunction 'hide not one's light under a bushel,' that is surely the Chinese way. The same reticence exists as regards private endeavours in work for wounded soldiers, which has been subject to some criticism of late."

MASS MEETING IN CANTON CONDEMNATION OF JAPAN ASKED

Canton, October 26.

The Young Men's Salvation Association held a mass meeting yesterday at which a resolution was passed to the effect that an appeal is to be made to the Nine-Power Conference at Brussels.

The gist of the appeal is for the condemnation of Japan for her atrocious deeds done to China and the Chinese people, and is in the hope that other Nations will be able this time to do their utmost best, so as to put up some kind of effective stoppage to the Japanese aggression. The resolution is as follows:

The fundamental principle of the Nine-Power Conference was to protect China from suffering any infringement or encroachment on her rights and territories; the duty of this Conference is therefore to carry out what has been passed and decided upon them. The Nine-Powers concerned has unfortunately not been able to stop Japan from her adventures in the three north-eastern big provinces of China, and has not convened any Conference to this effect, so as to make Japan return Manchuria to China.

The Convention of the Brussels Conference would not be too late if the issues of this Conference could stop Japan from her rampaging actions in China.

Delegates to this Conference must bear in their minds that they are under an obligation to force Japan to return all the territories occupied by her taken away from China, such as Manchuria, North China, and all other places in which Japan intends to occupy. In the absence of this moral justice in their mind the Conference would be a failure and the Chinese people will be again disappointed. The Chinese people are by no means willing to negotiate any peace of whatever nature with the enemy under the influence of having their territories infringed and their sovereignty encroached upon. The present resistance wholeheartedly put up by the Chinese people is aimed at the restoration of their territories lost and at the security of independence and freedom. In case the Nine-Power signatories should unfortunately disregard the unanimous demand of the whole Chinese mass and should still uphold Japan, the Chinese people, although made to accept the recognition of Manchuria as a "fait accompli," free movements of Japanese troops around Peking and Tientsin and Japan would still be allowed to go on with her misbehaviour such as smuggling of goods and heroin and contraband importation, the Chinese people would then lose

CHINA UNIFIED— AND HER FUTURE

Brilliant Address To Local Rotarians

A brilliant speaker with a profound knowledge of the military situation in the present hostilities in China, Mr. Percy Chen, son of Dr. Eugene Chen, former Foreign Minister of China, addressed Hong Kong Rotarians yesterday at their weekly dinner meeting at the Hong Kong Hotel.

"China Unified—And Her Future," formed the subject of Mr. Chen's talk.

Mr. Percy Chen is at present Editor-in-Chief of the China Information Agency.

Mr. Chen said:—It is a privilege to address the Rotarians of Hong Kong on a subject upon which many of China's friends I am sure would welcome an expression of opinion. It can only be an expression of personal opinion for in these momentous days when my country is engaged in a war forced upon her by Japan, the future will unfold itself from day to day, and can hardly be forecast over a long period ahead. Nevertheless I am keenly sensitive of the past ten years of my country's history. And being sensitive of the recent past I have examined it minutely and have found much that gives me reason to believe strongly in the future of my country and its people.

The most earnest desire I have is to convey to you, gentlemen, a part of that firm belief in my country's future as one of the influences for the advancement of mankind and the prosperity of the human race. A catastrophe like war always brings out the very worst. There are possibilities that the best in China will be disclosed in this struggle that we are waging for our freedom and our destiny.

A CHINA UNIFIED

China to-day—is China unified. This is the present, and upon what foundations is it built? Are those foundations lasting as having been constructed out of the conscious experiences of peoples and proved?

Two years ago, as part of the policy of the Government for the maintenance of peaceful relations with Japan, placards were posted up in the majority of towns and cities in China exhorting the citizens to refrain by word or deed from aggravating Japan.

PRAYERS FOR CHINA

Nanchang Christians Ask For Victory

Nanchang, October 26: Foreign and Chinese Christians at Nanchang gathered yesterday to pray for China's victory in the present Sino-Japanese hostilities.

Three wives were sent out by the gathering, one through Dr. V.K. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to France and China's Chief Delegate to the League of Nations, to the Nine-Power Conference at Brussels, urging the participating countries to uphold world peace and justice, another to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, paying respects for his leadership in the present national crisis, and the third to the Chinese warriors fighting at the front, encouraging them to continue their efforts for the defence of the nation.

Chinese Reinforcements Pour Into Kiangwan, Chapei

JAPANESE OCCUPY CHENJU RADIO STATION

SHANGHAI, OCTOBER 26: A JAPANESE ARMY SPOKESMAN AT 10 O'CLOCK TO-NIGHT NOTIFIED THE BRITISH MILITARY AUTHORITIES THAT THE CHINESE TROOPS HAD BEGUN A "MASS RETREAT" IN THE GENERAL DIRECTION OF THE SHANGHAI-HANGCHOW RAILWAY WHICH IS IMMEDIATELY ON THE SKIRTS OF A GOOD PART OF THE WESTERN DEFENCE SECTOR MANNED BY BRITISH TROOPS. A CHINESE SPOKESMAN, INTERVIEWED BY REUTERS, SCOFFED AT THE REPORT AND SAID THAT THE CHINESE WERE SENDING REINFORCEMENTS AND WOULD ONLY LEAVE CHAPEI AND KIANGWAN IF THEY WERE BLASTED OUT. BUT THEIR DETERMINATION TO RESIST TO THE LAST DITCH WAS UNCHANGED. THE SPOKESMAN ADDED THAT HEAVY FIGHTING WAS IN PROGRESS IN THE VICINITY OF KIANGWAN.—REUTERS.

Shanghai, October 26: With the Chinese contesting every inch of ground, the Japanese have occupied Tachang and are now trying to press an advantage. The Japanese also occupied Chenju Radio Station, the hub of China's international wireless, radio and telephone communications. The Chinese admit the loss of Miaoohang the capture of which the Japanese had previously claimed. A Chinese spokesman says that if the Chinese are unable to check further the Japanese advance they will have to withdraw from Kiangwan while if the counter-attack is unsuccessful they may also have to evacuate from Chapei.

The Japanese have cut the Shanghai-Nanking Railway eastward of Nanshiang. The Japanese expect the Chinese to withdraw from Kiangwan and Chapei to-night. If they do so it is expected the Japanese will make a stand along the north bank of Soochow Creek from a point near the junction of the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow Railways.—REUTERS.

Shanghai, October 26: Chinese reinforcements are pouring into Kiangwan and Chapei according to a Chinese spokesman. This is regarded as indicating that neither centre will be given up without a stern struggle.—REUTERS.

Shanghai, October 26: Under the cover of heavy artillery fire, thirty big Japanese tanks succeeded this morning in crushing through the Chinese lines at Tachang. The advance was checked by the arrival of Chinese reinforcements who smashed several of the tanks and had a severe hand-to-hand fight with Japanese riflemen behind the moving fortresses. Over 2,000 Japanese were killed or wounded, while Chinese casualties are also heavy. Another Japanese column attacked Chenchiaohong and Chaomatong but were unable to make much progress in the face of stubborn Chinese resistance.—International News Agency.

U.S. WILL KEEP OUT OF WAR

"Unless And Until Others Have Been Dragged In"

STANLEY DOLLAR INTERVIEWED

"American sympathy to-day is beyond question on the side of China, but if anybody thinks that that sympathy is going to find expression in America coming into this war as an active participant on the side of China he is greatly mistaken, if I have correctly interpreted the feelings of the average American."

This dogmatic statement was made to a representative of the "Daily Press" yesterday by Mr. Stanley Dollar, grandson of the famous Robert Dollar, founder of the Dollar Steamships, Ltd., who is now in Hong Kong. Mr. Stanley Dollar, a typical American university graduate, as exemplified in the Hollywood films—tall, slim and debonaire—is on a round trip in the President Hoover, which leaves Hong Kong to-day for the United States. He is a member of the Dollar Steamship Lines and does not intend to go in for politics. Ships, shipping and the sea is in his blood, he says. Mr. Dollar discussed the war situation as affecting the United States quite freely. There was no doubt, he said, that trade was hit, and shipping even worse, by the Sino-Japanese hostilities and there was a rising tide of sympathy with

Chinese common soldiers are displaying unflinching courage in defence of the nation, and part of their spirit comes from the knowledge that, for the first time in China's history, the general public looks up to them and appreciates their sacrifices. CHINA UNIFIED—AND HER FUTURE

This was part of a policy that is now known in Chinese political history as "the policy of conciliation by concession." This policy proved to be a failure, for it misled Japan concerning the seeming weakness of the country, and brought in its wake the formation of the East Hopei Autonomous Regime (which gave Japan a place d'armes for future conquests right under the shadow of Peiping), and the so-called Ho-Umetzu Agreement with the withdrawal of Central Army units and the branches of the Kuomintang Party from Hopei and Chahar.

Internally, the policy of "conciliation by concession" was completely unpopular with the Chinese people who expressed their disapproval in divers ways possible in a political system without democratic safety valves.

NATIONAL REGENERATION

More serious were the signs of provincial separatism, particularly in South China, which grew sharply. Last year the crisis was reached and only super-human efforts by Nationalist elements prevented the outbreak of a fresh series of disastrous civil wars which would have brought final ruin to China.

This record low in Chinese Nationalism in 1935, indicative of the immense and fatal dangers ahead if something was not done, brought about the advocacy of a policy which has proved successful. That was the policy "for the creation of a new internal situation within China" as a basis for National regeneration. The keynote of this policy was Unity—real, unmistakable unity. And the goal once set was reached so that when the need arose China was able to meet Japanese aggression united, with every man and woman, shoulder to shoulder for the common cause. This is the name of Nationalism.

"LUKUOCHIAO" PLANNED

The more clear-sighted of Chinese Nationalists expected Japan to begin serious attempts to round off her conquests in China during the present year. A mistake was made by some who expected it to take place in the autumn. But when one views the present campaign which the Japanese are carrying out in Shansi and Suiyuan and the need to make progress in these regions before the coming of wintry snows one realises that the Lukuochiao Incident occurred according to an exact mathematical calculation by the Japanese Imperial General Staff. But they failed to foresee the possibility of the appearance of the 8th Route Army in North Shansi.

Faced with the invasion of our territory, unified China has been able to throw all her armed forces into the field. And China today has a National Army. The significance of this is immense. The Chinese Army is a weapon of the National Government of the Republic.

Around Shanghai the High Command re-groups divisions, takes out, and replaces troops in the line, incorporates divisions and units as demanded by the battle situation. Cantonese Kwangsi, Hunan, Kiangsi men fight side by side and only vie with each other for the honour of moving to the attack.

CHINESE ARMS WILL PREVAIL

Whatever may be the fortunes of war—and we believe that Chinese arms will prevail over the invader—China's unity is accomplished and Dr. Sun Yat Sen who laboured to create this Republic of ours can be content that his first principle—Nationalism—Unity has become engraved upon the breasts of every Chinese.

In this period of crisis and war, where the entire people are at one with the Government and the Kuomintang Party, the freedom of individuals and their willingness to work hard for the Nation will result in the recognition of the sanctity of those democratic rights.

COMMUNISM AND FASCISM

During the period of the decline of Nationalism in 1935 to which we have referred, and then as a last effort in 1936, there were tendencies pointing towards some sort of "Fascism." If the decline was to be continued and San Min Chu I Nationalism stifled. It is characteristic that the Japanese fostered this inclination, and strove to stimulate an artificial struggle between "Communism and Fascism" in China similar to the struggle proceeding in Spain. Mr. Hirota in one of his famous Three Points for China put forward the question of co-operation between the Chinese and Japanese Governments to oppose Communism.

To-day in China there is no one (save the traitors who are mostly of the Bureaucrats left over from the Manchu regime) who does not support the Central Government and the Party. This ideological identity is one of the promises for the success of the introduction of democratic rights and privileges for upholding and protecting the legitimate interests of all classes of the population.

OPPOSITION EXPECTED

It is thought that opposition will come to democratic tendencies from the elements known in China as the remnants of the "Manchu Bureaucracy," elements that thrive on "squeeze," corruption, and whatever bad qualities that mar our Governmental services. These bad elements know that it will be harder to confuse the people and their representatives than just to confound the "Son of Heaven."

One of the hopes therefore for the future as a result of the sacrifices which the people are being called upon to make, is that of the second principle of the late Tsungli, Dr. Sun Yat Sen—Democratic Government.

LIVELIHOOD OF THE PEOPLE

And here we touch on those four elements which are perplexing individuals as well as nations. Housing, food, clothing and education.

I would be a genius if I were to try to tell you what the future holds for China in the matter of the livelihood of the people. This is the formulation of the Third and Last Principle of Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

There has been no satisfactory contribution made to the solution of the land problem in China during the last eight years since the Kuomintang established its control over Country. Those of us who are able to examine the Communist attempts at a land settlement dispassionately as the expression of the dissatisfaction of the Peasantry, are unable to find any programme which could be applied in a modified form to satisfy the land hunger of the Chinese peasantry. Two major tendencies have been noted of late. There are the creation and development of co-operatives in farming; and the large scale purchase of land by banks, and the city well to do.

THE FUTURE

The future in my opinion lies with production co-operatives suitably assisted with credits from the Government; Industry supplying the fertiliser, implements and means of transport; While the schools and universities give us men to supervise the standardizing of the crops products for export or their scientific packing for transport.

The need for the development of industries in China came to the fore during the last two years. The modern Chinese banker (and his foreign colleagues) still do not see their way to participate in the development of industry. So the task seems to be left to the Government.

Hitherto discussion, "useless" as well as unprofitable, weighted the question whether the development of Heavy Industry should precede the Light Industries.

HEAVY INDUSTRY

The present war has furnished the answer in no unequivocal terms. The Heavy Industries must be developed by the State no matter on what conditions. In China to-morrow, heavy industry, the opening of mines, the smelting of iron, metals and the chemical industries will probably have to be carried out by the Government. The present merchant, middle class, will work out a system for the financing of light industry which will give them a more secure position in the modern industrial life of the community.

China is an agricultural country and for many years to come will probably remain so. But in order to "advance the livelihood of the People" if not to "guarantee the Livelihood of the People," we have to possess sufficient industry to reduce the chances that in any future conflicts we do not have to worry immeasurably about the Canton-Kowloon Railway.

STEADFAST FRIENDS

In conclusion I want to assure you gentlemen that China in this crisis knows who are her friends. And we have good and steadfast friends. We of the younger generation brought up in the tradition of the Kuomintang and the Three People's Principles have long memories and stout hearts. We believe in the strength of our people and we are not afraid of the liberating of 450 million to participate in the defence of our country. Japan has not yet developed her full force of aggression. But neither have we released the full flood of the just fury of the Chinese people against the invaders. We face the future unafraid, and unflinching. (Applause).

MUISAI CASES

Marina Poon, 21-year old spinster residing at No. 17 Man Chung Terrace, ground floor, was bound over in $200 to come up for judgment in one year if called upon by Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday when she appeared on a charge of keeping an unregistered mul-tai and bringing into the Colony an unregistered mul-tai.

It was stated by Inspector H. W. Fraser of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs that an eighteen-year old girl named Fok Fan had been found on the premises on October 25, and enquiries elicited the fact that she had been brought into the Colony early last month.

Lam Shui, 52, widow, living on the top floor of the above address, was dealt with in the same way for a similar offence. In her case the mul-tai was 12 years old.

CLAIM FOR WAGES

Before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Supreme Court yesterday, an action was brought by Pun Wui Shan, Tam Ying, Lo Kwong and Yui Fuk, of No. 289 Des Voeux Road West, against the Wing Hing Firm of No. 263 Des Voeux Road West.

Defendants were represented in court by Fok Shan Fook.

The plaintiffs' claim was for the sum of $134.54, being wages owing by the defendants, of which Pun Wui Shan claimed the sum of $78.52, Tam Ying $16.17, Lo Kwong, $21.00 and Yui Fuk $20.85.

It will be recalled that at a previous hearing judgment was delivered for each plaintiff for the amount of his claim with one set of the costs.

Yesterday, an application on the part of the defendants to set aside judgment under section 302 of the Code of Civil Procedure was made.

After evidence was given by the first three plaintiffs (the fourth being absent) and Fok Shan Fook, the judgment previously given was upheld.

DOG SUMMONSES

W. Bamro, residing at No. 81, Kimberly Road, appeared before Mr. K. M. A. Barnett at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday on summonses for keeping a dog without a licence and allowing it abroad without a muzzle or lead on Oct. 7. A total fine of $20 was imposed.

Pleading guilty to the summons for allowing a dog to be seen in Mody Road without muzzle or lead, Mrs. Tirbak, of No. 12, Humphreys Building, was fined $15 by Mr. K. M. A. Barnett at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT

In an attempt to end her life on Monday, Ho Wun, 54, a widow, threw herself overboard from the Yau-mai ferry Man Yee in the harbour, but was rescued and sent to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

Quarantine restrictions have been imposed against arrivals from Rangoon on account of plague.

Nerve stimulant and nutrient:

At the time "Serravallo's Tonic" was sent to me I was commencing a convalescence from an attack of influenza. I was very weak and exhausted and of great nervous prostration with the usual insomnia and loss of appetite. I at once began to take "Serravallo's Tonic" and am much pleased to say that I found it in every way what is said of it, that it is an invaluable tonic and nerve stimulant and nutrient. As it did so much for myself I need not assure you I shall strongly recommend it to my patients.

FIGHT AGAINST MALARIA

A DISCOVERY

Developments Just Ahead

The prediction that medical science is on the verge of important developments which will help materially in the fight against malaria was made by Dr. W. Kikuth during a discussion in the chemistry section at the meetings of the British Association in London.

Delivering the presidential address Dr. F. L. Pyman, head of the research department in Boots, spoke on "Researches in Chemotherapy."

Chemotherapy may be defined as "the treatment of disease by chemical substances which have been shown by biological methods to be relatively much more toxic to pathogenic organisms than to human or other animal hosts."

Dr. Pyman discussed the main types of chemotherapeutic drugs in detail according to the organisms they were designed to kill.

He described his own work in the field of killers of amoebae, of especial value for the treatment of dysentery, and said that a substance which at first seemed very promising had had to be abandoned; valuable hints for future work had, however, come to light in the process.

Dr. W. Kikuth, discussing the chemotherapy of malaria, said that two chemotherapeutic substances of value had been discovered—plasmoquin and alafin. By using both of these it is now possible for the first time to break the life-cycle of the malarial parasite entirely.

He considered that we were on the verge of important developments in this field which would help materially in the campaign against malaria.

McGowan's Death Through Mistake, Say Japanese

Shanghai, Oct. 26. The headquarters of the Japanese Third Fleet issued a communique late last night expressing regrets over the death of Rifleman W. McGowan, of the Royal Ulster Rifles, who was machine-gunned in Keswick Road, on the western outskirts of Shanghai, by a Japanese plane yesterday.

The communique attributed the attack on the British outpost to the mistaking by the Japanese airmen for a Chinese barricade.—Central News

"ALARMING" ANTI-PRESS LEGISLATION

Journalists' President On Publicity

MISUSE OF OFFICIAL SECRETS ACT

Mr. Hugh Dawson, in his presidential address to the annual conference of the Institute of Journalists at Margate recently, drew attention to the danger of restrictive legislation affecting the Press, says the "Morning Post."

The need for vigilant activity in safeguarding not only the freedom of the Press but its other privileges in general practice was never greater than at present, he stated. The desire of Parliament to promote restrictive legislation was becoming alarming.

In the interests of "clean journalism" and because certain newspapers had not the sense to see the restrictions they were inviting on themselves, the Institute some years gave its support to the Judicial Proceedings Act, which imposed severe limitations on the reporting of matrimonial causes.

There had now come the Summary Procedure (Domestic Proceedings) Act, which not only enacted similar restrictions in regard to certain types of police court cases, but in special circumstances made legal the exclusion of the Press from the courts. Where was all this going to end?

"There appears to have been less watchfulness over recent proposals of a restrictive character than might have been expected from powerful proprietorial organisations which are not without their spokesmen in both Houses of Parliament."

NEED FOR VIGILANCE

"Let the public as well as the newspaper interests be on their guard against the discouragement of publicity in judicial proceedings. Publicity is an essentially important element in the rigid administration of justice. Within the limits of decency and order the rights of newspapers to report the proceedings of his Majesty's Courts of law should be beyond challenge in this enlightened century."

"Judges and magistrates are not infallible, and the function of the Press in throwing the light of knowledge upon the manner of their discharge of public duties is an aspect of this question which which ought not to be overlooked."

INTUSION

"Our professional colleagues everywhere—except, perhaps, a few braggart apostles of the doctrine that what they regard as news must be revealed, however cruel the cost—are with us in the campaign against what has been called 'unwarrantable intrusion into private affairs,' and so are the proprietors. They have all said so through their representative and powerful organisations."

Why, then, should not the practices cease instantly? Why should this small but sordid smear mar so much otherwise brilliant achievement? Why, at the height of the recent controversy, and while the disclaimers were being made by all sections of the Press, should things have been done to alienate further the House of Commons and, as Mr. Alan Pitt Robbins informed the Empire Press Union Conference not long ago, damn indefinitely the proposals for the amendment of the law of libel, in support of which the Empire Press Union has built up an unanswerable case?

Mr. Dawson referred to the case of a reporter in the North of England who was fined under the Official Secrets Act for refusing to disclose the source of certain police information.

"The Institute," he added, "does not hesitate to associate itself with the strongest possible protest against the Official Secrets Act having been invoked in a matter of this kind. It was surely never intended as an instrument for maintaining, at the expense of the Press, discipline in a local police force."

A civic welcome was given to the delegates by Mr. W. R. Noble, Mayor of Margate.

Mr. Henry Archibald Taylor, of London, was elected President for next year.

The conference carried a resolution stating that the law of

ENGLISHMAN AS DESERT "KING"

Joined In Tribal Battles
FASCINATION OF ARABIA

The fascination of Arabia for the adventurous Englishman, is one of the subjects dealt with by Mr. W. J. Makin in "Brigade of Spies" (Robert Hale, 12s. 6d.), says the "Morning Post."

Mr. Makin mentions Major J. B. Glubb, who recently received from the Royal Central Asian Society the first gold medal to be struck in memory of Colonel Lawrence.

"To-day at 39," Mr. Makin writes, "Glubb lives the life of a Bedouin in the desert and has seen more fighting and has experienced more adventures than even Lawrence. Known to the Arabs as Abu al Hanak, 'the man with the jaw,' he is the uncrowned king of 60,000 Arabs in the deserts of Transjordan."

"It was after the War, as an officer in the Royal Engineers, that he went to Mesopotamia for service. There the desert laid its spell upon him. It seems highly probable that he will die in the desert."

"Bagdad saw little of this officer of the Engineers. He preferred to go into the lost regions of the desert, pitch his tent, and live and it with the Bedouins. He drank sweet tea with them, talked their language, even joined them in their tribal wars."

HIS OBJECT

"He had one goal—to preserve the independence of these Arabs from the marauding tribes who roamed the desert and gave allegiance only to Ibn Saud."

To-day, the author states, the Arabs come to Glubb with all their troubles; they are devoted to him. Mr. Makin writes also of Mr. H. St. John Philby, who, he says, lives in Mecca and has become a Moslem and confidential adviser to King Ibn Saud.

"Mr. St. John Philby knows the Arabs better than did Lawrence," Mr. Makin asserts, "speaks and reads their language better, and is regarded as a great man among them."

Other Englishmen whose achievements in Arabia are mentioned in an interesting book include Peake Fasha, Bertram Thomas, Mr. C. J. Edmonds (adviser to the new King of Iraq), and Major C. S. Jarvis (for 14 years Governor of Sinai).

The book deals also with espionage secret societies, and the "murder clubs" which, according to the author, exist in most countries.

libel should be so amended so as to protect newspapers and journalists against the risk of vexatious actions.

Mr. J. E. Archibald, of Reading, who moved the resolution, said cases in which people tried to get nominal damages against newspapers because they had a petty grievance against them seemed to be on the increase. They wrote to the proprietor or editor demanding a small sum of money and threatening an action if they did not get it.

Vast African Empire Plan

Paris Paper's Startling Revelations

Paris, Oct. 25.
A remarkable account of the recent interview between Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German Ambassador to London, and Signor Benito Mussolini, which took place in Rome, is given by the newspaper "Le Jour," which asserts that Herr von Ribbentrop told Il Duce that a programme of Colonial claims would soon be published in Berlin, which includes the return to Germany of the Cameroons and Ruanda Rundi, and the creation of a vast international territory in Africa to be exploited by Britain, France, Italy and Germany.

The article further stated that a Colonial Office is being created in Berlin.

Herr von Ribbentrop is also said to have suggested a sort of International Government for Palestine, similar to that which controlled the Saar before the Plebiscite, and to have advised Mussolini not to cause a violent break in the Non-Intervention Committee, but to gain time. He urged him, to sign an Anti-Communist Pact with Japan before the opening of the Brussels Conference.

THE BRUSSELS CONFERENCE

U.S. Peace Bodies Laud Government's Part

Washington, Oct. 26.

The National Peace Conference, comprising 40 organisations, has addressed a letter to Mr. Cordell Hull applauding the Government's participation in the Nine-Power Conference.

The letter says that it is not enough to condemn war or to quarantine military aggression. Economic and political justice is the only foundation, where an enduring peace can be rebuilt.

"We believe," the letters says, "that the United States should, concurrently with the Brussels Conference, initiate steps looking towards economic adjustments to improve the living standards of all peoples."

JAPAN'S REPLY READY

Declines To Attend Brussels Parley

Tokyo, Oct. 26.

This morning's papers are agreed that Japan has decided to decline to participate in the Brussels Conference. "Domei" declares that the Cabinet will endorse the decision this morning and then obtain Imperial sanction, after which a formal reply will be sent to Belgium.

The "Asahi Shimbun," however, states that some discussion is still going on regarding the actual wording, which may delay the reply one or two days.

ANGLO-PORTUGUESE RELATIONS

London, Oct. 25.

The British "Good Will Mission"—to be composed of representatives of the army and navy—is to visit Portugal in the near future in order to renew the traditional friendship between the two countries. The Portuguese Government recently informed the British Government that it regarded its alliance with Great Britain as the basis of its foreign policy, its independence and the inviolability of its Colonial Empire.

The "Evening News" asks in this respect that it would like to know to what extent Britain can count upon Portugal's co-operation in view of a possible outbreak of hostilities in the Mediterranean, it being pointed out that in case a conflict should break out, Portugal would be of greatest possible value because of her position. Britain also wishes to ascertain whether, in case of a victory in Spain by General Franco, Portugal would remain aloof from combinations which would bring about an increased anti-British feeling in the Mediterranean.

FUTILE PROTESTS

Although we have by now become calloused to the brazen falsehoods spread by the Japanese propagandists in their effort to win some sympathy from the civilised world in their undeclared war against China, we feel constrained to express indignation at the latest effort by their Navy Department, namely their plea of innocence in regard to the bombing, by Navy planes, of open towns and cities which resulted, as we already know, in the deaths of thousands of civilians.

We are indignant because it is such an insult to our intelligence for the Navy Department at Tokyo even to hope, for a moment, that we would "swallow" every statement they make. The Japanese naval authorities "strongly resent the criticism levelled by some Powers and the League Advisory Committee against the air raids," contending that these criticisms are not based on any ground.

Reports and photographs published in our columns during the past few weeks, all obtained from authentic sources, showed what havoc amongst the civilians and their air raids had wrought in Canton and other open cities. Thousands have been rendered homeless as the direct result of these unprovoked and barbarous assaults on a defenceless people, and yet the Navy Department in Tokyo has the brazen effrontery to protest against the criticism made against the despicable methods adopted by their air force.

The Japanese sea lords then go one better. They have "formally and emphatically denied the report in the foreign Press to the effect that many Chinese fishing boats were recently sunk by Japanese submarines in South China waters." How can this be when the Japanese Navy is constantly under orders not to attack defenceless craft? It is unthinkable that the Japanese would stoop to such cowardly acts! Yet there is not one, but hundreds, nay thousands, of poor villagers who would be ready to come forward and tell of the damage done by the Japanese navy, army and air force to non-combatants. No Japan, you can "fool all of the people some of the time" but even those who appear to you to be the biggest fools in the world refuse to be fooled all of the time, in spite of the fact that your Navy Department "hopes" that the outside world will place confidence in the good faith of the Japanese Navy and show itself proof against reports of this kind.

While the powers that be in Tokyo are busy, dividing their time between sending more troops to North China, devising "more effective" ways and means of subduing a nation that is fighting gallantly to protect its territorial sovereignty, and denying "malicious reports," the Japanese propagandists are no less busy trying to "take in" the world with their cunningly worded statements. For instance one of them even went so far as to say that "in raiding their objectives Japanese planes dive low, in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire, in order to ensure that their bombs hit their marks and nothing else." The reply to this is, if the Japanese planes did fly low at all, the purpose was to make doubly certain that their bombs and machine-guns would miss nothing, not even innocent civilians, women and children included. This statement is not made at random, for we daily receive reports to the effect that railway stations, crowded with non-combatants, are attacked by the Japanese "vultures."

Yet—the Japanese Navy Department protests in a manner that is so vigorous and so persistent that it is calculated to inspire nothing more helpful to Japan than resentment and suspicion.

THE DRUG TRAFFIC

Those sections of the Report of the Fifth Committee of the League of Nations on the traffic in narcotics, laid before the Assembly at the end of September, which deal with the clandestine production of opium and similar drugs, make highly disgraceful reading for all Governments which are alive to the dangers of the illicit importation of great quantities of cheap narcotics from what are now the chief centres of their production. These centres beyond any question are Manchukuo and those parts of Northern China where Chinese authority had been undermined by the Japanese before the outbreak of hostilities.

The drugs are manufactured in the Japanese concession in Mukden and in Dairen but bear marks of Chinese origin. The Japanese laws do not allow the export of drugs from or through Japan or Korea; those therefore which are exported to America, Europe, and other regions are shipped at Chinese, or nominally Chinese ports. The danger to other countries if this vast production of narcotics is allowed to continue unchecked need hardly be emphasized, and an offensive on a large scale is required unless the good work of the League of Nations is to be undone and the world is to be re-poisoned.

The contrast between the attitude of China and Japan towards the use and sale of narcotics is remarkable. In most provinces in China the most drastic measures, even including the death penalty, are being taken against the vendors of opium, and there have been cases of the execution of addicts. In Manchukuo, on the contrary, the traffic in drugs is an open business, conducted under the auspices of the Government's opium monopoly. In Northern China Tientsin has been the centre of a vast distributive trade conducted under Japanese official protection.

The comparison speaks for itself. All that need be said here is that it is disquieting to learn that a nation which still professes its desire to regenerate the Far East by its example should be so blind to the moral and physical damage which is being wrought under its aegis. The Chinese, whether of North or of Manchukuo

RELIEF WORK BY WOMEN

Organised Effort For Wounded And Refugees

Members of the Chinese Women's Club in Shanghai are going to concentrate most of their energy on supplying inland hospitals with necessities, it was recently decided.

This club, although with a normal membership of only 150, can call on many friends for help in time of emergency, and has taken a most active part in relief work since the opening of hostilities. Its members include many prominent society women who display qualities of leadership and initiative when necessary.

Deciding that hospitals in Shanghai are better able to canvas for supplies and comforts than those inland, members are working to make bandages, sheets, clothes and similar necessities to be sent to hospitals between Shanghai and Nanking. There are fewer women's clubs in those towns sufficiently organized to render adequate help, while in Shanghai this club is able to enlist many volunteer workers, including foreign friends who give their labour for making up these articles.

WARM CLOTHING

They recently sent thousands of bandages to the front, and propose to send more. Warm knitted underwear is also receiving their attention, while refugee relief is another item on their list of projects. Officers of the 18th army defending the Losen sector have requested knitted woolen sweaters similar to those sent already with a truckload of gifts.

The club has received much support from people who know their work, and many donations of materials and money have been given by various friends. One of the most recent donations is U.S.$500 from an American woman, who heard about their many charities, and remitted the sum through a Chinese friend.

Club headquarters are in a room of the Y.W.C.A. building, and as fast as articles are bought and made up, they are sent out in answer to numerous requests from people who are in need.

FUNERAL OF MCGOWAN

Distinguished Officials Attend

Shanghai, Oct. 26.

Shanghai turned out en masse yesterday afternoon for the funeral of Rifleman W. McGowan, of the Royal Ulster Rifles, who was machine-gunned by Japanese planes. The funeral was most impressive.

The cortege passed through streets thickly lined by Chinese many of whom were carrying banners extolling the bravery of McGowan. Detachments of troops and naval parties from every nationality except the Japanese attended, while officials present included Admiral Little, Admiral Yarnell, Admiral Lebigot, Commander-in-Chief of the French Asiatic Fleet, Brigadier-General Telfer-Smollett, Colonel Beaumont, Colonel Graham, Commandant of the French troops, the British Consul-General, Mr. Herbert Phillips, Mr. Franklin, the American Chairman of the Municipal Council, other foreign consuls and many Chinese officials.

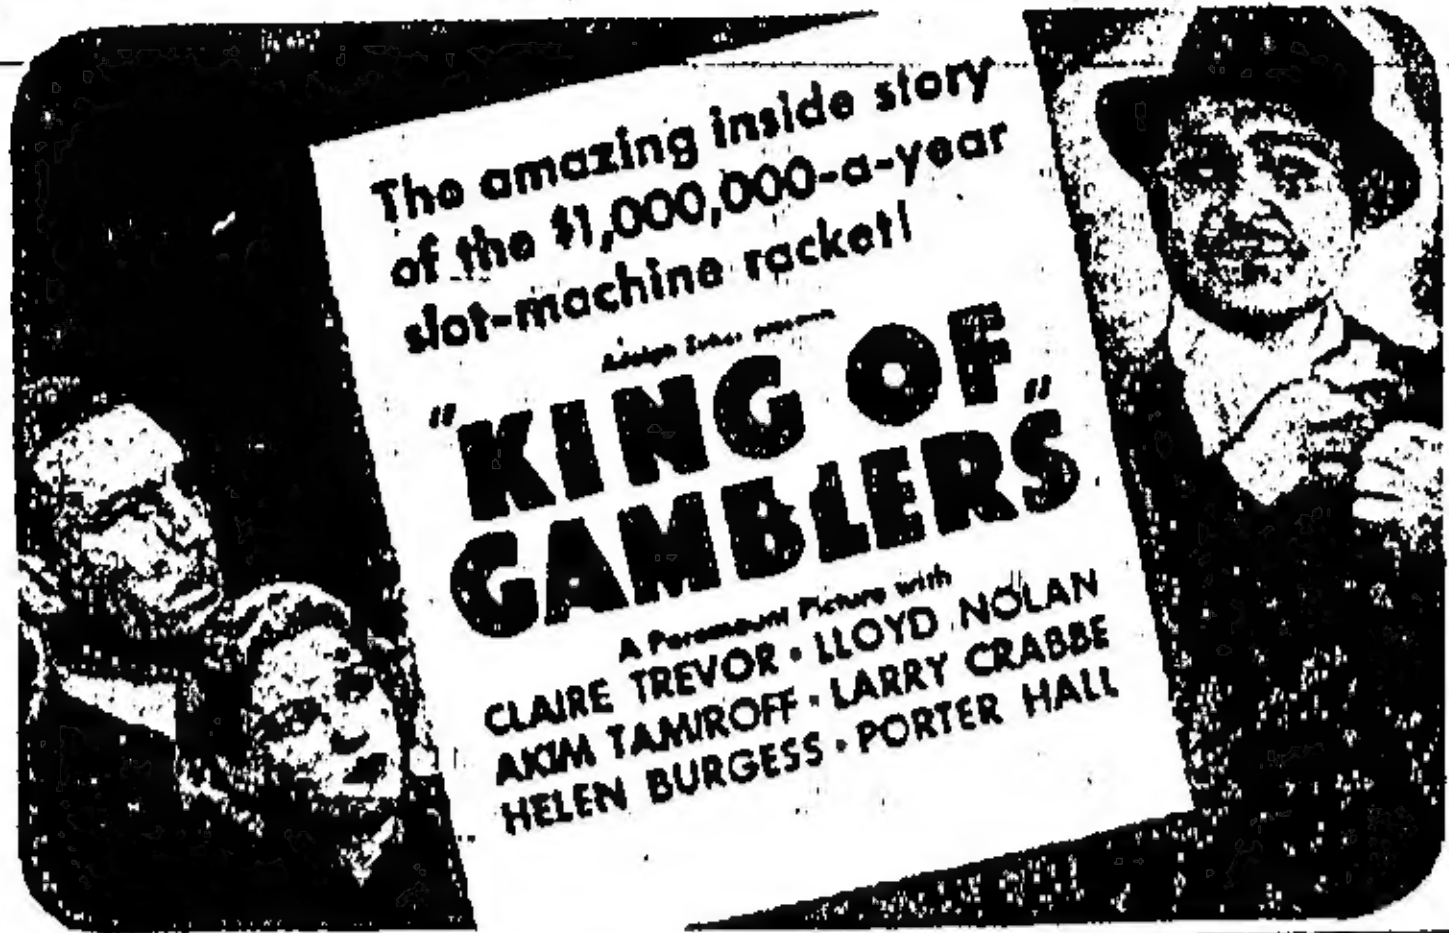

"Among the hundreds of wreaths was one 'from the girl he helped to shelter.'" have been been and still are the principal sufferers from this deplorable state of affairs. But there are limits to their absorptive capacity, for the drug habit sooner or later impoverishes its victims and a large-scale production of narcotics requires an expanding market. Here lies the danger to other countries. And here too lies a new danger to the prestige of Japan, which has already been gravely impaired by the ruthless violence of its militarists. No Government, however powerful, can afford to incur the suspicion that it encourages the development of the most disreputable of industries on an unprecedented scale.

BETWEEN TWO WOMEN

A thrilling and courageous story of the billion-dollar slot machine racket in a big city, brings Claire Trevor, Lloyd Nolan and Akim Tamiroff to the screen of the Queen's Theatre to-day in "King of Gamblers," a Tiffany Thayer original.

With Tamiroff in the title role, the story daringly shows the link between the racket and officials in high places who receive a "cut" in the steady stream of profits from the "one armed bandits," as the slot machines are known to the underworld, and the connection between this racket with other gangland activities.

Miss Trevor portrays a night club entertainer with whom the underworld king is in love. She does not love him, however, but falls in love with Nolan, a newspaper reporter, whom she meets at the club.

The cast also includes Porter Hall, Helen Burgess, Harvey Stephens, Funnell Pratt and a fine list of other supporting players. The story was directed by Robert Florey.

KING OF GAMBLERS

Within fifty feet of each other, tragedy and gaiety were enacted on the set of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Between Two Women," which is at the King's Theatre to-day.

In one corner of the huge sound stage cameras turned on a wrecked crane cab that swayed precariously from steel girders as a man opined within, in a scene similar to an actual building accident that occurred several years ago in Boston.

Partitioned from the grizzly scene, hundreds of dress extras danced dreamily to the rhythmic strains of a twenty-piece orchestra.

"Between Two Women" is based on an original story by Erich Von Stroheim and was inspired by a tragic real life story. Adapted to the screen by Frederick Stephani and Marion Parsonnet, the picture was directed by George Seitz.

THINGS TO COME

Conceived and produced upon grand scale, H. G. Wells' "Things to Come" which is showing at the Majestic Theatre this week, is the most amazing and without any doubt the greatest picture ever made. Nothing like it has been before and it will set a new standard for film production the world over.

The story opens at Christmas time in Everytown, a typical prosperous city in 1940. Newspaper placards scream warning messages of impending war, but the populace carry on their shopping and merry-making. Suddenly, without warning, the city is bombed and is totally destroyed.

War lingers on until 1970. By then everything is in disorder and a dreaded disease known as wandering sickness breaks out. This is checked by the Boss, who orders all sufferers to be shot. Industrial production is at a standstill, and the people have returned to a primitive mode of life. Sporadic warfare is carried on by ill-equipped bands of men.

STUDIO AND SCREEN

Religious Films—"Lawrence of Arabia"—Charles Laughton

Over 1,000 cinema projectors are now being used in this country by various religious bodies, and the supply of films for this special market is a matter of immediate interest. Recently a studio was opened in Upper Norwood for the Religious Film Society which is independent of the great commercial film companies. Biblical, documentary, or historical films will be made here, and it is hoped that religious bodies will make great use of its products.

But the Religious Film Society is not the only producer of religious films. Gaumont-British Instructional is at present making three feature films "with a religious bias." One of them, "As We Forgive," in which Belle Chyral and Michael Hogan appear, has been photographed in Cornwall. A three-reel film based on an original story entitled "The Unseen Power" is another of these special pictures, and the third is based on Tolstoy's "What Men Live By."

The general subject of religious films and their production is considered by Alberto Cavalcanti, a film director who has worked in Paris and London, in the current number of "World Film News." Cavalcanti writes first of the constitution of programmes, and suggests as the best a documentary, possibly with a religious interest, followed by a dramatic short, such as Tolstoy's "Where Love Is, God Is," and, finally a cartoon (or, why not a comedy?). The direct moral and religious teaching should still, he suggests, come from the pulpit, so that the films need not be overburdened. Cavalcanti then writes of the subject-matter of religious films. He thinks an adaptation of Debussy's cantata "L'Enfant Prodigue" "could be quite an interesting experiment," and that some of the simplest Bible stories would make effective films if treated on a real background and in simple costumes. Finally, a history of the Reformation in England could be "one of the best religious subjects," and could be treated "exceedingly well" by the realist school.

A film called "Lawrence of Arabia" is to be made by Alexander Korda, with Leslie Howard in the title part. It is reported that Leslie Howard has been studying the life and character of Lawrence for the past three years, and that he has said: "Lawrence, a typical Englishman of the scholar-poet-adventurer type, is certainly the most interesting character I have had to play so far."

Charles Laughton is enthusiastic about the story of a new film in which he will appear as a newspaper man. The story tells of rise and fall of a great newspaper. It will be made into a film by Erich Pommer, of Mayflower Pictures. The story is by Bartlett Cormack, who has worked with Pommer before, and who adapted for the screen "Front Page" (by Hecht and MacArthur) and "Gentlemen of the Press."

Radio Pictures announce that the Marx Brothers are to make three pictures for the company. The first will be "Room Service," an adaptation of a successful Broadway comedy. Paramount are to make another large-scale "Western," following the success of "The Plainsman" and "The Texas Rangers."

Insurance Against Stardom

Currently engaged in filming a picture, Irene Dunne seems determined to keep her infant daughter from ever acting in one.

The popular star, now co-starring with Cary Grant in Columbia's "The Awful Truth," took out an unusual annuity on 18-month-old Mary Frances Griffin, whom she and her husband, Dr. Francis Griffin, adopted seven months ago.

Payable at the age of 21, it will give the girl the entire principal if she is not connected with the theatre. If she is in any way affiliated with the theatre, however, the young lady gets only monthly interest payments for the following 20 years.

Miss Dunne has denied she sought the policy as a subtle means of keeping her child out of show business. "If she is not in the theatre," she said, "she will need the larger amount to help finance a home or business career."

Hollywood, however, continues to ponder the reason for the unusual stipulation in the policy.

"WORKING UP A BLIND ALLEY"

Rome, Oct. 25.
Extreme scepticism prevails in Italian political circles concerning the success of Tuesday's Non-Intervention session. The "Tribuna," after voicing the opinion that Non-Intervention is working up a blind alley, states that since the Italian contribution, the difficulties have multiplied instead of decreasing. The paper voices the opinion that a crisis is now again unavoidable, since the Soviet Union has rejected the British plan as the basis of negotiations.

Seen by the Central News, a Chinese military spokesman stated that such reports had also been received in military circles. He suspected that the retreat of the Japanese had been caused by their repeated reverses during the last few days.

The shifting of a part of the Japanese troops to reinforce their comrades on the Peiping-Hankow Railway front where they had suffered serious defeats, in the opinion of the spokesman, might be another explanation for the retreat from Niangtzequan Pass.

ATROCITIES IN NORTH

Japanese Slay Many Civilians

Officials Buried Alive; Girls Misused

Nanking, Oct. 26: Large numbers of villages in north Shansi have been burnt down and thousands of innocent civilians mercilessly slaughtered by the Japanese troops, according to military reports received here.

Wherever the Japanese troops passed through there are marks of their atrocities and ruthlessness, with corpses strewn on the ground and houses lying in ruins, the reports asserted.

Suspecting that they had assisted the Chinese troops in espionage work, the Japanese troops, the reports said, killed all the villagers and razed down their farms while marching from Lingchiu on the north-eastern Shansi border and Pingyinkwan.

In and around the walled city of Lingchiu several hundreds of non-combatants were killed, while large numbers of young women were captured by the Japanese troops to satisfy their lust.

YOUNG WOMEN TAKEN

Many villages lying between Pingyinkwan and Taihsien and Chunhsien, both south of Yenmenkwan Pass, according to the reports, are being destroyed by the Japanese troops. Scores of civilians here were killed and many young women were captured and taken away in trucks.

At Shuhsien and Ningwu, respectively north and south of the Great Wall, no less than 2,000 people were ruthlessly put to the sword, whilst public functionaries were captured and buried alive. At Yangfangkou northwest of Ningwu many villagers were also slaughtered.

In order to stir up ill feeling between the Chinese and Mongols the latter were summoned by the Japanese to act as executioners in killing the Chinese.

YOU GET THE EXTRA WEAR OF A SECOND PAIR

THE FLORSHEIM SHOE

When the last page has been written in the life of an ordinary shoe, there still remain many glorious untold chapters in the career of a Florsheim. "Finis" comes late in the life of a Florsheim Shoe . . . because every Florsheim is built to give "the extra wear of a second pair." Where other shoes drop out of the running, Florsheims march stalwartly on, conquering precious months and miles of added, extra wear. High in miles-per-pair . . . low in cost-per-mile . . . that's real economy . . . it's what you get in Florsheims.

YOUTH SNATCHES EAR-RING

Chan Hok, a seventeen-year-old youth with no visible means of support, was brought before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday charged with larceny from the person of Wan Fung, an old woman, of a gold and jade ear-ring.

It was stated that complainant was walking in a lane between Lockhart and Jaffee Roads when defendant came from behind and snatched the ornament, tearing the lobe of her ear a little in doing so.

His Worship imposed a sentence of three days' hard labour and eight strokes of the cane.

inside the professional record of 68, held by Charles Whitcombe and J. J. Taylor.

UNFAIRNESS ALLEGED

German Athletic Defeat

Great Britain defeated Germany at the White City recently by 69 points to 67 in one of the most thrilling athletic matches for years.

The issue depended on the last event, the one mile, medley, and A. G. K. Brown, famed for his 440 running, ran the last leg, a half mile, in 1 minute 51 2/10 seconds—which was 4/10 seconds faster than the British record, but will not count as such because Brown had a flying start.

The only record set up during the day was achieved by H. Woelke, the German Olympic champion, who attained a distance of 52 ft. 9 ins. in the weight putting to beat the British record of 51 ft. 8 ins.

Unfortunately a few days after the contests the "National Zeitung" of Essen, a paper closely connected with General Goering, marred the spirit in which the events had been contested by an article which it called "Fair Play." "England," said the paper, "won the match because the programme was very favourably drawn for Britons." It argues that events in which Germany was strong were purposely omitted to give advantage to Britain.

POINTS BALANCED

"If the match was not to include the full Olympic programme," says the paper, "it would have been only just, if the strong and weak points of both sides had been balanced."

Replying to the German criticism, Mr. D. G. A. Lowe, Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Association, said: "I think it very regrettable that it should be suggested that Great Britain won the match by any unfair means."

"Such was definitely the opinion of the members of the German team, the President of the German Athletic Association, a member of the German Olympic Committee and representatives of the German Embassy who were present."

"It was suggested by this newspaper that Britain deliberately excluded from the programme certain field events at which Germany excels. The programme has been the same in each of the last three matches, and it includes five field events and eight on the track."

"Perhaps I may add that on the evening before the match a suggestion was broached by a leading German official that the match should be confined to track events in the future and my immediate reply was that it would not be fair."

ROAD SIGNS RANK BEFORE ARM OF LAW

BENCH DECISION

When To Ignore
The Policeman

Can a policeman's signal take precedence over a traffic sign?

This is the question which is agitating traffic experts and Whitehall, following a decision of the Amersham police court and the comment then made by Mr. W. G. Garrett-Pegge, Chairman of the Bench.

Mr. Garrett-Pegge stated: "It must be clearly understood that these 'Halt: Major Road Ahead' signs take precedence even if a constable waves anyone on. They must stop at the white line first."

He told a "Morning Post" representative that in his view such a sign should still be held operative when a long stream of traffic was being got away, under police control, after such an event as a Rugby football match at Twickenham or a military tattoo.

"I should say, personally," he explained, "that every car ought to stop at the line, even though the police are waving on a whole succession of cars."

WHEN LIGHTS BREAK DOWN
He emphasised, however, that he would not apply the same ruling in the case of traffic lights. There have been occasions, in central London, when the light control system has broken down and police have been controlling traffic in defiance of the lights for a quarter of an hour before the lights could be turned off.

Here is the result of a quest for

CESAREWITCH FANCY FAILS

In Irish St. Leger

Two colts which were prominent in the St. Leger had important engagements to fill recently. Senor, who gave an exceedingly good account of himself at Doncaster, and has been quoted as joint favourite with Fet and Maranta in early betting on the Cesarewitch, ran in the Irish St. Leger at the Curragh, where he was a clear favourite among the five runners. Owenstown and the locally-trained Flying Image were the best fancied of the others. Senor failed to concede 3lb. to Owenstown, who won by two lengths from Mr. W. Barnett's colt. Two months ago Owenstown had been successful in the Ulster Derby.

More credit to the St. Leger form was given by Sultan Mahomed when winning the Scottish Derby on the opening day at Ayr. Considering that he was conceding 8lb. to the winner, Merry Mathew suffers no real loss of prestige. The Northcountry colt certainly showed to much better advantage than he had done on the Knavesmire last month.

Slight odds were bet on Merry Mathew, there being little to choose between Sultan Mahomed and Azam Pasha. The only other competitor Vergilius, for whom Sir Abe Bailey paid 5,000 guineas last autumn, was completely neglected.

THE WEIGHT TELLS

The running was made by Sultan Mahomed for the first half of the journey. He was then joined by the favourite, but the weight proved too much for Merry Mathew at the last and he was beaten by three-quarters of a length. Azam Pasha was a moderate third. This success partly consoles the owner and trainer of Sultan Mahomed for his failure at Doncaster, where the Massine colt was involved in the scrimmage which blotted out Mid-day Sun's chance. The softer going on the present occasion was in his favour.

CESAREWITCH OUTLOOK

At the moment there are three joint favourites for the Cesarewitch. Fet, who has been under a cloud for a few months, sharing that distinction with Senor and Maranta. Near Relation narrowly failed to win the Cesarewitch for the second time last year, and is to make another attempt.

Epigram is among those whom I expect to show up well in the Cesarewitch, writes a Home correspondent. I was much impressed with his performance at Goodwood, and I forgive him his failure at York because I am convinced that it was not good policy to make running on this fine stayer.

BEGAN IN 1893

Instituted at Newmarket in 1893, the Cesarewitch is run over a course of two and a quarter miles. It owes its unusual name to the State visit to England in 1839 of Alexander II of Russia. Alexander was then heir-apparent to the Russian throne, and as such was known as the Cesarewitch, or more commonly, Tsar-revitch.

further enlightenment:

A Ministry of Transport official pointed out that both traffic lights and "Halt: Major Road Ahead" signs were "obligatory."

Automobile Association.—An official stated: "It has been a long-established fact that a police signal takes precedence over any form of traffic sign. Otherwise there is no provision for an emergency."

"It is a common circumstance for police to call upon traffic in special circumstances to disregard traffic signs, and this is necessary in the interests of safety. If the principle is that a traffic sign—an inanimate object—cannot be disregarded in special cases by direction of the police, Automobile Association will seriously consider raising the issue with a higher authority."

Home Office.—An official on the other hand, gave the view that the problem was not one to be hastily answered.

The Amersham case concerned Arthur P. Meager, a motorist, of Penfold-road, Clacton, who was fined 15s. His defence was that there was a police constable on the main road. He had signalled his intention of turning right, and as the constable merely stood to attention he assumed that everything was all right. Taking it as an all-clear sign, he turned into the main road very slowly, but was stopped by the constable.

CESAREWITCH PROSPECTS

Rain Pleases Fans

Newmarket, Oct. 26.

Week-end rain has delighted the majority of owners and trainers and others watching the Cesarewitch, most of whom wanted softer going.

Nightcap's connections are more sanguine than ever in the hope of pulling off a big double for the ex-jockey trainer, Dines. Captain Abern, Nightcap's owner, says he has backed his horse heavily, but others also expect to win.

Hedges, trainer of Fet, says that if his horse fails to establish the record of winning the race twice successively, it will only be because he is beaten by the stable companion, Respondent.

France also has hopes in three horses, Harewood, Organeau and Castanella, especially the first-named, which is backed to win a small fortune and take the trophy across the Channel.

Bookmakers describe the betting on the race as heavier than usual. Joking, an outsider is considered a successful contender.

Other than these, perhaps Foxstar, Idaho and Grecco have the best chances.—

KING GEORGE OPENS PARLIAMENT FOR FIRST TIME IN REIGN

Concern Over Conflicts In Spain And Far East In Speech From Throne

LONDON, October 26. KING GEORGE VI AND QUEEN ELIZABETH DROVE THROUGH LONDON FROM BUCKINGHAM PALACE TO THE HOUSE OF LORDS IN THE FIRST STATE DRIVE SINCE THE CORONATION TO OPEN PARLIAMENT. THE PRIME MINISTER, MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN, WAS UNABLE TO ATTEND THE OPENING SESSION OWING TO GOUT.—REUTERS' BULLETIN SERVICE.

The King and Queen rode in a glass and gold State coach drawn by eight of the famous Windsor greys. Pageantry appropriate to occasion was observed and vast crowds assembled along the route which was bathed in sunshine and warmly cheered the King and Queen. Yeomen of the Guard in picturesque costume marched beside the State coach. Three mounted Esquiers were in attendance and the Sovereign's escorts were of Horse Guards. Five semi-state landaus each drawn by four bay horses accompanied the Royal coach carrying the ladies and gentlemen of the Royal household. Time honoured pageantry was observed on arrival at the House of Lords at the entrance of which the great officers of state in ceremonial uniforms assembled to receive the King and preceded his Majesty in procession to the robing room, the sword of State being carried by Viscount Halifax before the King. Their Majesties having put on Royal robes the procession advanced to the House of Peers the Cap of Maintenance being borne on the right of the sword of State by the Marquess of Zetland.—British Wireless.

IN HIS SPEECH FROM THE THRONE, WHICH WAS READ, HIS MAJESTY THE KING SAID:

I have invited the King of the Belgians to visit me in November and a similar invitation has been extended to the King of Roumania for the spring of next year. I shall welcome the visits of their Majesties and trust they will conduce towards consolidation of the friendly relations existing between our nations.

SPAIN

My Ministers have followed with growing concern the continuance of the conflict in Spain. It is their aim to do everything that lies in their power to assist towards the restoration of peace between the Spanish people. They believe that the strict application of the international policy of non-intervention in Spain will materially contribute to this end.

FAR EAST

The position in the Far East will continue to engage the earnest attention of my Government who will persist in their policy of attempting in co-operation with other Governments, whether members of the League of Nations or not, to mitigate the suffering caused by the conflict and bring it to a conclusion.

INDIA

I am looking forward with interest and pleasure to the time when it will be possible for me to visit my Indian Empire.

DEFENCE FORCES

The expansion of equipment for the defence forces is now making rapid progress and a Bill is being brought forward to ensure that energetic steps be taken to complete measures for the protection of the civilian population against air raids.

TRADE OUTLOOK

The outlook for trade and industry has remained favourable and there is every indication that the progress made last year will be maintained.

LEGISLATION

The coming legislation will include Bills to provide for the unification of coal royalties under national control, prevention of frauds in share dealings, better provisions for preventing abuses of the law relating to clubs, and an added comprehensive publicity campaign undertaking to ensure the fullest use of public health services and to encourage their expansion.—Reuter.

SHIPS ABLE TO PASS CANTON BOOM

Canton, Oct. 26. It is possible for steamers taking a draught of nine feet to pass the boom so as to enable more ships to enter Canton. The steamers Sai On and Kwang Sai are expected here to-morrow from Hong Kong. Ships cannot pass Boca Tigris at night, and the section between Whampoa and Boca Tigris is heavily guarded. All ships must be piloted when they pass through the barrier. The U.S.S. Mindanao and H.M.S. Moth which left recently for a cruise of the West River are now back in their anchorage off Shamoon. Merchandise will go freely with the resumption of river shipping and high cost of commodity prices owing to shortage of supply are expected to drop back to normal.—International News Agency.

MISSIONARY FOUND DROWNED

London, October 26. The death is reported, under tragic circumstances, of Mr. Marshall Broomhall, a former missionary in China. He was found drowned in a well near his home in North Church, Hertsfordshire.—Reuter.

HIGH MORALE OF WOUNDED CHINESE

of the lowest class of men. To-day, organizations and private people go out of their way to help and "comfort" both the wounded and those in the trenches. Frequent gifts of "comfort bags" contain little luxuries, such as eatables and cigarettes. Gifts of warm clothing and messages of good-will further uplift the morale of the fighting men. The wounded in hospitals are treated considerably, while some units, notably those with women to supervise small details of comfort, take pains to humour and please the patients. It is not the extra comfort they like, explain the soldiers frequently, but the knowledge that ordinary citizens and particularly the womenfolk take trouble to look after their welfare. Women's clubs have special committees to inspect conditions regularly, and see what extra comforts they can devise. Others go to write letters for the soldiers, providing both stationery and stamps. Women's organizations make sheets, bandages and clothing and supply extra comforts. Visitors, including many women in their pretty gowns and with bright smiles, are welcome sights, although their hearts are frequently torn with pity.

NOTHING WASTED
The latest Red Cross Hospital is being managed by a group of patriotic and public-spirited Chinese citizens. Their organization is known as the Citizens' Emergency Auxiliaries and is considered a model of efficiency, cleanliness and economy. Well-known society women keep details of housekeeping under their own eyes, and make sure that nothing goes to waste. The unit is in the former home of a wealthy Chinese who generously contributed use of the large residence and its spacious gardens while the emergency lasts. It is one of the best-equipped in Shanghai, with an X-ray machine for diagnostic purposes, infra-red and ultra-violet rays for treating wounds, short-wave application on bone injuries, and X-ray therapy for more serious bone infections.

MASS MEETING IN CANTON

their entire faith in international righteousness and justice. Their respect in international obligations and treaties will simultaneously be shaken. Thus, the restoration of peace in the Far East can never be attained and all the foreign rights and interests as stipulated in treaties would unfortunately be on the verge of being slackened. All the nine signatories except Japan have been hitherto friendly to China and have co-operatively or individually been helping China with her various enterprises and reconstructions. The Chinese people still believe that their enthusiasm to give China the protection to her sovereignty and territory is just as good as fifteen years ago. We therefore sincerely hope that the Conference will take our appeal into consideration, and that one for all this great mass of people will not be disappointed again.—Reuter.

A foreign doctor is in charge of special treatments, while the medical staff consists of seven foreign and Chinese doctors and eight nurses.

HUMOUR HIGH
One hundred wounded soldiers are being accommodated now, while preparations are under way to receive an equal number in addition. Less seriously wounded patients delight in joking with the staff and visitors, for their humour remains unquenched. While the whole of the house is given over to wards, the administration offices, reception room, stores and staff are contained in a large detached building. On the spacious lawn around the hospital light entertainment programmes and lectures are given in fine weather for patients who are well enough to attend. The hospital is operated on a most economical basis, with the entire staff from administrative officials and doctors down to cobbles rendering their services entirely without pay. Beds, blankets, linen, utensils and other necessities are all contributed by individuals, department stores and other organizations.

VILLAGERS WARNED TO EVACUATE

Japanese Pilots Drop Leaflets

Canton, Oct. 26. Handbills dropped by Japanese pilots during the last raid on the Canton-Hankow Railway were collected here to-day. They warned villagers along the railway to evacuate ten miles for their safety, as the Japanese threatened to bomb the railway again.

This gave rise to the rumour that there will be a big bombardment of Canton on or before November 30. This alarming report has been circulated here for the past several days.

Anti-aircraft guns are mounted along strategic points of the railway for its protection.—International News Agency.

CHINESE RAID JAPANESE

Planes Return To Base Safely

Shanghai, Oct. 26. Chinese planes staged three raids on Japanese positions at Hongkew and Yangtzeppoo between 10.45 o'clock last night and 1.50 o'clock this morning.

Despite heavy Japanese anti-aircraft shells, Chinese raiders swooped low over Japanese positions and dropped a number of heavy bombs. Several fires were started at Yangtzeppoo. All Chinese planes safely returned to their airbase after the raids.—Central News.

JAPANESE PUSH ON TO TACHANG

Shanghai, Oct. 26.

The Japanese claim that they have captured Miaochong, three miles north-east of Tachang. It is also claimed that Japanese units have occupied part of Tachang, but the Chinese authorities state that the township is still fully in their possession.

The Japanese further assert that the vanguard of their army has reached a point half a mile northeast of Nanshiang, while another force has now come to within a hundred yards of the Chenju radio station.

Meanwhile, a Japanese flying column has reached a section of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway, which it is attempting to destroy "in order to cut off the retreat of Chinese forces from Chapei."—Reuter.

A Chinese spokesman admits the Japanese occupation of Tachang.—Reuter.

CHINESE ALREADY WON GREAT ADVANTAGE

London, Oct. 26.

Whatever may now happen in Shanghai the Chinese may justly claim to have already won a great advantage, says the "Manchester Guardian." There must now be some 120,000 Japanese fighting there who can be ill-spared from the Northern Campaign.

Losses on both sides are enormous but China can afford them and Japan cannot. The Japanese Command may well be cursing the impetuosity which first involved them in this disastrous "side show."

The "Times" in describing the harrowing conditions in Shanghai hospitals emphasizes that in no other theatre of the war are there supplies, equipment, accommodation and organization available, even on the inadequate scale now existing in Shanghai. The "Times" suggests that every family should remember the Lord Mayor's appeal when making out their Christmas shop lists.—Reuter.

LOCAL SPORT REVIEW

Haymes' Creditable Achievement

There was plenty over the last week-end to waken the enthusiastic taste of sports fans. The chief attraction was, of course, at Happy Valley on Saturday, when the Ninth Extra Race Meeting was held in glorious weather. Of the many race-goers at the Course none can have had more reason to be happy than the lucky holder of ticket No. 37183 in the Kwangtung Handicap, who had the immense satisfaction of seeing Mr. H. C. Pih bring Plain View in first by a head, to net him the first prize of $31,813.80 in the big Sweepstakes.

On the cricket field, there was one very fine performance by a new recruit of the Hong Kong Cricket Club, F. Haymes, playing for the Club's second eleven against the Indian Recreation Club, achieved the distinction of taking all ten Indian wickets. Going on first change, he sent down 113 overs five of which were maidens, and had 47 runs hit off him. Six times he hit the stumps and on another occasion he accepted a hard return from N. Singh when the latter looked like winning the match for the other side. It is true that the batting strength of the Indians in this game was very weak, compared to the days when Sirra Khan, F. M. Arculi and M. R. Abbas had charge of the side, but the performance is nevertheless a very fine one, and will probably earn for Haymes a trial in senior cricket. On another ground R. T. Broadbridge gave an exhibition of what was described in certain quarters as a Jassopian piece of hitting. Though the bowling he encountered was comparatively weak, there is no doubt that Broadbridge has improved out of all knowledge in the past few seasons, and his play for the Kowloon Cricket Club this year will be watched with much interest.

On Sunday the well-patronised hockey match between the Shanghai Lad's team and a team from the Central British Association Ladies saw a brilliant come-back by Miss Margaret White. Playing a fast and skilful game, she scored the only goal of the match and was responsible for the Association's victory over a side which on the run of play was little inferior. South China Athletic Association's senior football team delighted their supporters at Caroline Hill by beating a full side from the Hong Kong Football Association by the odd goal in

CRICKETER MAY LOSE WINTER WAGES

Going On Football Tour

Essex County Cricket Club has threatened to stop the winter wages of A. Avery, the Leyton amateur footballer, if he goes on a world tour with Islington Corinthians F.C.

Avery, has, however, been persuaded by his mother to accept the invitation, and Islington Corinthians, who have chosen only 19 players for a very long tour, have saved a last minute difficulty.

Mrs. Avery, who is prepared to make a sacrifice so that her son may see the world, stated: "He is a wonderful son and, without a father, is the mainstay of the family. When he heard from the Essex Cricket Club he decided to withdraw from the tour, but we did not want to stand in his way."

"I got in touch with the Islington Club, found the offer was still open, and told him to accept. He is hardly likely to get another chance such as this, and shall manage at home somehow."

There is, however, still a hope that the Essex Cricket Club will change its view and grant the winter allowance. Arrangements are being made for Avery to come home in time to start his cricket training next year.

CRANMER NOT WYATT CAPTAINS WARWICKSHIRE

London, Oct. 25. Peter Cranmer, the English International rugby player, will captain the Warwickshire Cricket Club next season in succession to R. E. S. Wyatt, the former England Test captain.

The Executive Committee of the Warwickshire C.C. said it had unanimously decided to change the captaincy in the best interests of the Club.

There has been talk that Wyatt is joining Surrey, for which county he has birth qualifications, but nothing has definitely been settled yet.

GLOUCESTER'S FINANCES IN HAPPY STATE

Gross Receipts Up By £869

"There is a definite revival of interest in Gloucestershire cricket," stated Mr. F. O. Wills, Chairman of the Gloucestershire County Club, at a meeting of the Committee recently.

He said that all the professionals had been offered terms for next summer, including Watkins, who proved an admirable emergency wicket-keeper this year.

Mr. Wills reported that the finances of the county were very satisfactory. The gross receipts amounted to £4,782, an increase of £869 compared with 1936, while the total number of persons paying for admission was 75,423, an increase of 12,978 over the previous season.

The bank-holiday fixture with Somerset created a record for an inter-county game, the receipts being £1,000.

He pointed out that membership was again up, while the report of the Coronation Appeal Fund showed that to date £3,764 had been collected.

Look at Your Skin

Skin Specialists declare that 80 out of every 100 women suffer from skin outbreaks, spots, pimples, blotches, and "muddy" complexions UNNECESSARILY!

Ugly complexion faults are woman's most common enemy. Few escape. Some resort to heavy powdering in an effort to hide them. Whilst others, due to consistent wrong treatment, cause the skin to become highly sensitive, coarse and blemished. To make your skin clear and healthy, your complexion fresh and smooth, use Cuticura. Cleanse the skin with Cuticura Soap twice a day. Its luxuriant and mildly antiseptic lather is soothing and softening; washes away pore-deep dirt which causes blackheads, enlarged pores and ugly complexion defects. And to rid the skin of pimples, skin outbreaks, rashes or irritations use Cuticura Ointment direct on the affected part before washing with the soap. Its antiseptic action kills germs, soothes and heals and quickly clears the skin. Try Cuticura to-day. See how soon your skin improves, your complexion becomes smoother, more attractive than ever before.

Less Acreage For Cotton In U.S.

Washington, Oct. 26. A reduction of two million acres in the area in which farmers who wish to qualify for the Government's benefit may plant cotton in 1938 has been announced by Secretary Wallace.

Officials in charge of agricultural adjustment in the Administration state that the change has been decided on because of this year's unusually large cotton crop.

The original estimated acreage for cotton planting was 29 to 31 million acres, which is now revised, to 27 to 29 million acres.

Reuter.

PRICE RAISED

In order that farmers co-operating in next year's cotton programme should not suffer by the reduction in the acreage, the rate of benefit payments has simultaneously been increased from 2 cents to 2.4 cents per pound.

Officials estimate that a smaller acreage will mean the reduction of about 680,000 bales in the 1938 crop.

TIN QUOTA

London, Oct. 25. Following to-day's meeting, the International Tin Committee announced:

The Committee considered the question of the fixation of the quota for the first quarter of 1938. On a review of all the information at present available, members reached the conclusion that the quota should be 85 per cent. but a definite decision would not be taken until the meeting on December 10.

With reference to this committee, Reuter was subsequently informed that the Committee, in stating the quota for the first quarter of 1938 should be 85 per cent. based on the present information, implies that it is prepared to reduce the annual output rate by 25,000 to 30,000 tons.

CHINESE POSTAGE STAMPS

What is described as the finest collection of Chinese postage stamps ever offered for sale, has been sold by auction by Messrs Harmer, Rooke and Co. Ltd., at their London Galleries. It is the collection of Mr. E. H. Finegan of Utica, New York, and is valued at about $4,000. The collection, which took 20 years to form, includes many rare pieces.

It not only represents the personal search of the owner, but also contains:—All Chinese stamps of the famous George H. Worthington collection, which consisted almost entirely of sheets and blocks of the 1878 and 1885 issues.

The first pick of the John N. Luff collection, at the time that collection was condensed by Scott.

The complete collection of W. H. Gardner, of California, which was strong in the issues 1897 to 1902.

Many places from the accumulations of Sir Robert Hart, Inspector-General of Chinese Customs during the early years of the Chinese Post.

Also many of the choicest items of other notable American collections which have been broken up during the last twenty-five years.

SAILING ROUND THE WORLD

Mr. Alan Villers' "The Cruise of the Conrad" (Hodder and Stoughton, 20s.) is a book, but a good one, on a now familiar plan: The search for "reality," for being face to face with something other than the European life, leads now, it seems, either to Greenland—so well staked out that Mr. Peter Fleming was too late for it—or else to the windjammer. The windjammer has been Mr. Villers' standby in the past; and now he tells us how he bought a Danish frigate, built, and well built, as a school ship, in Copenhagen. He christened the ship "Joseph Conrad"—a happy thought, except that Conrad's sea was the sea of necessity, not the sea of escape.

IN WIRELESS TOUCH

The following ships are expected to be in wireless communication with the Hong Kong Radio Station:—
Shirala, Yuen Sang, Tjibadak, Kashima Maru, Swartenhondt, Sunkiang, Anking Nellore, President Monroe, Carthage, Pres. Grant, Grete Maersk, Neptuna, President Jefferson, Potsdam, Victoria, Empress of Canada and Houtman.

gathered a crew, partly of boys who wanted and could pay for some adventurous schooling, and sailed his vessel to New York, Rio, Cape Town, the East Indies, Australia, the South Seas, and round the Horn, and back to America. A good tale, vigorously told. "Morning Post"

THE REGULATION OF FREIGHT RATES

"Of No Importance At Present"

At a meeting of representatives of the shipowners' associations in Denmark, Norway and Sweden, held in Copenhagen last month, a report was submitted of the statement, issued by a meeting of British shipowners in London as to future regulation of tramp freight rates.

The Copenhagen meeting was of opinion that, during the present state of affairs or shipping, regulation is of no importance, but if it should be desired to maintain or construct schemes of international freight co-operation, it is presumed that shipowners in Denmark, Norway and Sweden, provided their adhesion is desired, will be given the opportunity of participating in the international discussion of principles and details, which ought to precede such co-operation.

MANNING AND HOURS
The Geneva Convention regarding manning of ships and hours of work was also considered by the representatives of the three countries, and the following resolution was unanimously carried:—
"In the event of Scandinavian Governments introducing bills pertaining to the conventions passed last year at Geneva regarding manning of ships and hours of work at sea, Scandinavian shipowners wish to emphasise the following points:—
"As it can safely be assumed that the Geneva Convention will not be ratified by leading seafaring nations such as Great Britain, Germany and Italy;
"As the countries which are likely to ratify are those in which shipping is being subsidised or even controlled throughout by Governments;
"As shipping in Scandinavia does not receive subsidies and has no desire of being subsidised;
"As the adoption of the convention is not warranted out of regard to the personnel employed in

Scandinavian ships, the crews of which are working under conditions that are superior to those in most other countries;

"SEVERE HANDICAPS."
"As a reduction of hours of work at sea will involve a substantial increase of crews, which, until the principle of equal wages has been established in other countries, will be a severe handicap to Scandinavian shipping in competition with other countries in which smaller crews and a lower wage-level obtain;

"As a number of Scandinavian merchant ships will have no space to meet the requirements of larger crews as involved by adoption of the convention;

"As Scandinavian marine casualty statistics testify to the fact that an increase of crews is not warranted for the sake of safety of human lives and cargo;

"As a large outlay of capital will be required to defray the cost of changes in crews' quarters, life-saving devices, &c., in addition to the increased burden of wages;

"And as neither Governments, owners nor seamen can possibly want to see national shipping stagnate or lose ground because it cannot hold its own in competition with shipping in other countries;

"The Scandinavian Governments are warned as emphatically as possible not to let a temporary spell of prosperity within the shipping industry lead them to enforce legislation which, for no pressing reason, would involve so heavy extra burdens on shipping that its future enterprise and development might be jeopardised."
